DISCLAIMER

Liability, Insurance & Treatment

You are advised that this course could involve intense learning, and be an extremely emotional, psychological and physical event, and is offered only as a glance into the world of Emergency Relief.

You are also advised that the course is not accredited or registered and that whilst some of the presenters have experience, they may not be certified trainers.

Further, you are advised that at the conclusion of the course, you will be participating in a mock scenario that will involve very high levels of emotion, stress, anxiety and physical energy, and could also involve surreal blood, intestinal organs and other body parts.

The contents of this course are neither exhaustive nor definitive. We are determined to provide the very best information, introduction, safety and care, possible. However, RescueNet International, RescueNet Australia or Australian Mercy Limited, or their representatives disclaims liability to any person, or anything done by that person in reliance, whether wholly or partially, on information provided throughout this course.

Before quoting any figures or engaging any of the principles taught in this manual, you are strongly urged to seek advice from independent experts, who can give you qualified information and training for your future in the world of Emergency Relief.
